If a feasible stat service can be found i like probably most owners would love to keep things just as they have been and enjoy the continuity and exclusivity/control of having our own dedicated site, however, time is running short and we aren't too far away from have to get drafts and what not lined up.....so even if its going to a service/league that runs all the stats i am all on board for whatever it takes to "keep the dream alive" so to speak. If we need to go that route Cecil's suggestion looks like as good of an option as i have seen in that realm.
